

Our Lady Queen of Heaven School K-2

October 20, 2017

Dear Families,

The staff and I enjoyed talking with all the wonderful parents who attended last night's conferences. I hope that all your questions were answered. We look forward to seeing more parents on Tuesday night, October 24.

Thank you for contributing to the Auction Royale gift basket. We will include a picture of the basket when it is finished.

Just a reminder that on Thursday, October 26 our students will spend most of the day at St. Vincent de Paul school with the 3rd, 4th, and 5th graders. This will give all students an opportunity to work together and participate in learning activities that are not usual elements of the school day.

Have a wonderful weekend!

Peace and grace to your family,

Mrs. Becky Gudelis

Responsive Classroom

To continue our discussion of Responsive Classroom, we'll focus Academic Competencies. These are not grade specific, but things that carry through life.*

- Academic mindset: Four self-perceptions influence a student's academic mindset: 1) I belong in this academic community; 2) my effort improves my performance; 3) I can succeed at this work; and 4) I see the value in this work.
- Perseverance: Perseverance is a student's tendency to complete assignments in a timely and thorough manner and to the best of their ability, despite distractions, obstacles or level of challenge.
- Learning Strategies: Learning strategies are techniques, processes, and tactics a student uses to 1) learn, think, remember, and recall, 2) monitor their own comprehension and growth, 3) self-correct when they are confused or have an error in thinking, and 4) set and achieve goals and manage their time effectively.
- Academic Behaviors: Academic behaviors are the ways in which students conduct themselves that support their success in school, including such things as regular attendance, arriving ready to work, paying attention, participating in instructional activities and class discussions, and devoting out-of-school time to studying and completing assignments and projects.
